Some optional subjects do not have proper learning resources. However, institutes would have framed excellent study materials. At this point of time, you will need their help for better preparation.

Keeping the above points in mind, please decide whether you need help from coaching institute or not.

Advantages Of Joining the IAS Coaching Institute

Of course, it is not mandatory to join any coaching institutes. You will get many examples! Where aspirants have prepared on their own and also cracked the exam with good score. So, coaching has never proved to be an essential element in UPSC preparation.

In fact, we can say that coaching is just an additional factor that enhances your preparation. It definitely helps to a certain level. The coaching centres push the candidates towards success. Ultimately, you will learn to work hard and be consistent.

Moreover, you will learn to revise the concepts on a regular basis. As the institutes conduct the weekly test, you will have to repeat the units. Always remember, revision is the key to success in UPSC examination.

We would like to term the coaching institutes as catalysts. It helps the student to be on the right track. In addition, they will right away prepare you to face a huge competition.

Moreover, good coaching institutes have the ability to reduce the stress level of students. 50 percent of the preparation work is done by them. You will have to put the remaining 50 percent of efforts. For all this to happen, you must be in touch with a good mentor.

Finding out the institute that offers reliable guidance and crystal-clear knowledge is not easy. You need to do some good research work. As a result, you will learn to study fast.

Enrolling into good IAS coaching institute help you with the following advantages. Go through them in the below list:

- Understand the pattern of the exam quickly. You will have experienced teachers who explain to you in the simplest manner.
- Reduces your stress level. Also, minimize your workload in terms of planning. Just follow the success path they have already built.
- Focus on a single subject at a time. Stop worrying! You will increase the focus and concentration power.
- You will experience the competitive environment. It is much needed to get the winning mindset.
- You will be strictly made to attend the mock test series. Face the exam pressure and be prepared for the real exam.

Best Study Materials and Learning Resources

Of course, coaching institute provides good notes. But, they also provide guidance to purchase standard reference books. Many students completely depend on coaching institute notes itself. It is not a wise decision.

Please do not neglect the standard books suggested by them. Otherwise, you end up in a disaster. Such books play an important role in building a strong foundation for your knowledge. In case you study only from notes, it provides partial knowledge.

Moreover, you should understand the same topic in multiple perspectives. In notes, the concepts are highly simplified. Such notes help you understand the concepts easily. But, it is not at all sufficient.

When you depend only on notes, you are left with scattered knowledge. It is dangerous when the UPSC exam is considered. Such incomplete knowledge will not stay in your memory for a long period of time.

In order to have long-term memory, conceptual understanding is very important. For this to happen, you need to prepare from standard books along with notes. However, these notes are extremely helpful during revision.

Warning! Never Do This Mistake

Most of the IAS aspirants tend to make this one common mistake. They sincerely read, read and read. In other words, they revise all the concepts well. But, fail to practice! Please do not ignore the practice. It is your duty to test the preparation level.

The examiner will no have any idea about your preparation struggles. He only sees the quality of answers being presented on the paper. Ultimately, they judge you based on the answer you have given.

So, practice well immediately after learning new concepts. Practice helps you to become perfect. Keeping this in mind, the IAS coaching institute provides UPSC standard mock tests. Students love to attend them.

Get your performance review from the good teacher. Otherwise, you will not seek any benefits of attending the mock test. When you are in the hands of good institute, it is easy to seek such support. Self-studying students find it difficult.
